FITSM Level I Basic Training This basic competency course is a 3-4 hour, in-service training and includes an exam. Certificates are issued for those who pass, which expire every two years. This course is excellent for designers, installers, code compliance officers and anyone seeking a basic understanding of firestopping.

Firestop products are highly dependent on proper design and installation for success in an actual fire. They are the only code required life-safety item installed by every trade. In response to the growing demand for training, The Firestop Solutions Group, a division of Specified Technologies Inc. has developed a competency-based training program.
